Ancoa becomes a Trayport Certified Software Provider

London, 22 September, 2016 Trayport, a leading provider of energy trading solutions to traders, brokers and exchanges worldwide, announced today that Ancoa has been successfully accredited as a Trayport Certified Software Provider (CSP).

Trayport's CSP program is designed to enable third party suppliers to connect to the Trayport system in order to better support mutual clients. Trayport's conformance testing ensures peace of mind for both the provider and clients ensuring security, stability and reliability against Trayport technology.

The changing regulatory landscape means that many energy market participants now require surveillance and analytics tools to ensure that they remain compliant. For Ancoa, becoming a CSP was a desired step to ensuring that they could confidently serve the needs of any Trayport clients looking for these tools.

"We welcome Ancoa to our ever-growing community of Certified Software Providers," said Ty Khan, Head of Trader Client Relationship Management at Trayport. "Following a comprehensive conformance and testing program, Ancoa can now connect to Trayport's platforms for the benefit of mutual clients. We look forward to successfully working with Ancoa's team."

Stefan Hendrickx, Founder and Executive Director at Ancoa, said "We are very excited to be an accredited CSP for Trayport. This certification highlights to market participants that Ancoa is a trusted supplier of software solutions that utilise and connect to Trayport technology."

He added, "Achieving this accreditation was a strategic decision for us, enabling us to meet the needs of Trayport clients requiring market surveillance capabilities."
